Skip and Judy

Over 25 years ago, Judy Welker started her own talent casting company. The resulting agency continues to be Indiana's only full-service casting company. Judy became known to the people of Indianapolis for her extensive work at Indianapolis' first professional dinner theatre, The Black Curtain. While developing her on-stage talents in the early 1970's she was approached to also take part in the tiny but expanding local commercial market.

Skip Welker joined forces with the fairer members of his family in the early 90s, helping to change the course of Artistic Enterprises, making it the company it is today. As business manager and co-owner, Skip is often the primary contact for our clients, making sure that the product they receive specifically meets their talent expectations. He is frequently found running the casting sessions and has built a reputation with our top actors for providing a level of direction, empathy and attention to detail that they've not found anywhere else.
